Carole Lyles Shaw, Featured Instructor, Bradenton, FL

Carole loves sharing her love of modern quilting! Quilters who attend her lectures and workshops rave about her supportive and fun teaching style and well-designed workshop materials. Students always comment that her workshops introduce both traditional and contemporary quilters to modern quilting techniques in a no judgment, low-stress, safe environment. She loves helping each quilter find her own unique approach to expanding beyond the traditional. Carole's quilts have been juried into numerous quilt shows and art exhibits and won awards for design and use of color. She has published two books of patterns: "Madly Modern Quilts" and "Patriotic Modern Quilts".

Most quilters know her quilt designs because of her love for improvisational curves and her passion for using lots of color. These are the foundation for what students learn in her most popular workshops. Students are amazed when they discover how easy it is to piece improvisational curves and use them in many different block designs. They say that learning these techniques---and experimenting with color---really frees them up to be more creative in the future. Follow Carole on her internet blog of on Instagram and Facebook. Spending time with quilters is definitely her Happy Place!
